PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, OCT 13, 1886.

THE WISER WAY.

In the course of a talk a few days ago Col Bob Ingersoll ran rapidly over the principal points of current political discussion, exhibiting clear good sense in all his utterances and particularly in some brief remarks on the socialistic movements and tendencies of the times He said he would like to see the workingmen push on their political movement and even elect their candidate for the presidency and secure a majority in congress. "I would like to see this," he explained, "so that they could satisfy themselves how little, after all, can be accomplished by legislation. The moment responsibility should touch their shoulders they would become conservative. They would find that making a living in this world is an individual affair, and that each man must look out for himself. They would soon find that the government cannot take care of the people. The people must support the government"

It is a pity that so simple and so necessary a fact as this is in danger of being overlooked by anybody. But it is a tendency of the present time to overlook it, to entertain the notion that as individuals we may lean on the government for support or look to it for help that in some way government may make provision for carrying everybody, and that it is the duty of government to do it.

In this or any similar notion there never can be anything but disappointment and failure Nothing can supply the place of individual exertion, no organization of the forces of government can combine the total energies of a people, and any scheme that would put these energies in leading strings or make them dependent would simply emasculate them Moreover, government being merely a creation of the people, has no power higher or greater than its source It is simply an instrument through which certain public purposes are effected, and it cannot concern itself with the direction of man's personal affairs. It must, indeed, leave to every man the fullest play for his faculties, and so it should not encroach upon the field of individual enterprise and effort. Still less should it adopt a policy which would teach men to lean upon it for this would be the philosophy of dependence of indolence, of stagnation and of decay A man's resources are in himself and nowhere else, and when he expects government to succor him he is looking to a mirage that will forever delude him. The thing most to be regretted in the candidacy of Henry George for the mayoralty of New York is the effect it has in the matter of causing many persons easily misled to turn to the writings of this socialist and sophister for instruction and help No writer of this description will ever lead men out of their difficulties. The longer he is followed the further he will lead them on. The sensible thing for every man to do is to burn the books of Henry George and all his ilk, and get right hold of some such concrete thing as a hoe handle.

THE EASTERN OREGON GOLD DISTRICT

The collection of mineral specimens exhibited at the Mechanics fair by Mr J W Virtue, of Baker City, is calculated to direct the attention of our people to a field which they have long and strangely neglected. This exhibit is a demonstration of the wealth of the gold district east of the Blue mountains, a district which Mr Virtue claims to be the largest and richest in the world Not a single mine nor a single locality is represented in the collection at the fair, but a hundred mines and every section of a district 150 miles long by 80 miles wide, covering a considerable part of Baker, Grant and Union counties The specimens include ores of various kinds, nuggets of pure gold in great number, pans of gold dust—all display conveniently and marked with the name of the mine from which they were taken A huge gilded pyramid six feet or more in height and about three feet square at the base represents the yield of this district up to the present time, in round numbers, $29,500,000

It can hardly be said that a district which has produced this vast sum and in which at the present time four thousand or more men are engaged in profitable mining is undeveloped There is, of course, considerable development, but only a mere scratching of the surface as compared with the development in the older and more celebrated gold districts Not one mine in ten known to be rich has been worked at all, and of the several quartz mines there are but two which at this time are worked by the most modern and profitable methods The development for the most part is in cheap and makeshift style, the poor effort of poor men The one thing lacking is capital. It is needed to sink shafts, to bring water, to buy machinery, to employ labor and for a hundred other uses, and without it the district language The object of Mr Virtue's exhibit is to show to our men of capital and business the character of the country and to revive an interest which will lead to the investment of Portland money in these mines and for their development. The era of development is now at hand The railroad now gives the district connection with the outside world in two directions and makes it easy to bring machinery and material into the mines The telegraph, as new forms the means of immediate communication and want in earlier days. It is now easy for mining men and capitalists to meet and go All the circumstances are favorable for new activity, and for the credit and interest of Portland we hope our people will not allow this opportunity to escape them

If Portland does not supply the capital needed in this district, some other will Denver Salt Lake City and San Francisco men—each of these cities has a direct interest in this field and as much interest in the growth of its production, if Portland neglects to assume her natural responsibilities, will take what naturally belongs to her. But the principle of mining, like that of most other business, is that a small part of the profits is paid by the many who make it possible for the greater and larger part of the profits to accrue from the trade of the camps. It is safe to assert that if another city furnishes the capital and investment, she will supply the labor required in the camps

THE TILDEN ASSOCIATION

After the president at election of 1876, when it was clear there was to be a terrible contest over the result, there was organized in New York city a society known as the Union Veteran Reform association It was composed exclusively of democrats who had served in the Union army during the war of the rebellion The purpose of this organization was publicly declared to be to throw the soldier sentiment of the North in favor of Tilden It was meant to be an announcement that the democratic Union veterans would not under any circumstances submit to the seating of Hayes by what was termed by this association "any act of usurpation" The president of the association was Gen Wm J Smith, then president of the board of police of New York city Among its executive committee men were Gen Martin T McMahon, Gen Wm W Averell, then James McMahon, then Horatio C King, Gen Nathan Gen Wiley, then Henry Smith, Gen Cadwallader of Philadelphia and Gen. Mott of New Jersey In New England among its members and most active organizers were Gen. Wm R. Franklin and Gen John M Colt of Connecticut and Gen Donohoe of New Hampshire. In the West the most efficient and active spirit in the work of organization was Gen. John M Corse of Chicago

It is claimed on democratic authority that the number of ex-soldiers who joined this organization all over the North exceeded 80,000, and the New York Graphic in a recent issue says of it

There is no doubt that the existence of this body of loyal, skilful soldiers, devoted to constitutional rights and to the democratic party as the exponent of those rights, had much to do with causing a change in the plan of the Hayes managers and the resort to the expedient of the electoral commission as a way of doing under forms of law that which they were determined at all hazards and by any means to accomplish in any event.

The presidential contest of 1876-7 was peaceably settled, but not because of the existence of this organization, which compared with the number of then surviving Union veterans was contemptibly small in numbers and feeble and disreputable in leadership. Wm F Smith, its president, was a constitutional military "sorehead," one of the few men of whom Grant speaks of in terms of severe criticism in his "Memoirs" as a "rule or ruin" subordinate. Smith was among the officers whom Burnside criticised to Lincoln after the first battle of Fredericksburg as playing the part of an obstructionist and an incendiary, to insubordination Smith was shelved from this time and after Gettysburg was sent to the army of the Cumberland as its chief of engineers Grant recognized his undoubted talent, persuaded the U S senate to make him a major general, and made him second in command of the army of the James under Butler He quarreled constantly with Butler, threw away a golden opportunity to capture Petersburg in June, 1864, and behaved generally so badly as a subordinate that Grant in despair, not of his talents, but of his mean temper, was obliged to relieve him Then he was sent down to the army of the Gulf as chief of engineers before Mobile, and Grant peremptorily forbade Canby to give him any larger command, saying that he could not be trusted While police commissioner of New York city under Mayor Ely he was so dissolute that his associate, Commissioner Col Joel B Erhardt, denounced him to the mayor as drunk while on duty, and as so corrupt that he and the heads of the department for harbor excursions with bummers of both sexes and tried repeatedly to induce him to approve the bill for the expenses of his orgies, which he had charged to the city

So much for the military and civil record of the president of Tilden's Theban band of democratic veterans Lieutenant-Colonel Martin T McMahon was a gallant Irish officer, who served on the staff of General Sedgwick when that lamented soldier commanded the 6 corps He was brevetted brigadier general for his services, but was always after the war conspicuous for his hostility to Grant and his fanatical admiration for McClellan Gen Averell was a dashing cavalry officer, who was relieved from his command by Gen Sheridan during the Shenandoah campaign in September, 1864, for gross neglect of duty He was another military sorehead Gen James McQuade was colonel of the Fourteenth New York and brigadier general by brevet. He was a brilliant man at a convivial gathering, a brave but not a diligent shoulder straps soldier who always had "McClellan on the brain" If anybody remembers who Gen Horatio C King was during the war, what he did, or where he got his title, we would be glad to know, as the name does not appear in the statistical record of the general officers of the Union army The same question needs to be asked concerning Generals Vatian and Kirby Smith Gen Wiley was brevetted for "distinguished service as a volunteer commissary of subsistence Gen Cadwallader served with the three months men under poor old Fussand feathers Patterson during the Bull Run campaign of 1861 and neither of them were ever heard of afterwards as a signal military figure Gen Mott served in the second corps during the war was distinguished generally and at Spotsylvania in particular for gallantry in carrying to make his division famous at the time when tally wanted Gen Wm B Franklin's name spelt failure to about every battlefield where he was clothed with military responsibility from the Antietam campaign of McClellan to the Red river campaign of Banks He was a military mechanical and shelter of idlers after the fight Fredericksburg Gen Colt was Maj James B Cole of the Fourteenth Connecticut and had Gen Donohoe was Col Donohoe of the Fifth New Hampshire Gen Corse was a division commander under Sherman famous for fighting flank defence at Altoona, and is the only name of any distinction on this list of the Tilden avengers that was not a military malcontent or carping sorehead during the war

Considering the large number of very able general officers who were democrats, this list makes a contemptible showing No wonder Tilden had no heart for revolution or a coup de etat when he saw that his military contingent was so officered by men who were conspicuous for nothing so much as failure, insubordination, or military mediocrity

It is the general understanding that the democrats will nominate Mr Benton Killin for the legislative vacancy Of the several democratic candidates defeated at the late election, Mr Killin received the most votes He is well fitted for legislative work, and if nominated will have a large support among those who care less for party affiliations than for personal qualification As yet there is no hint as to who the republican nominee will be

The "waterway convention" will hold its second session to-morrow at Vancouver The purpose of this convention is to promote the improvement of the Columbia river from the ocean to the highest navigable point. The board of trade will send a delegation

The Mechanics' fair is distinctly a success The attractions are fine and the attendance is large each night

WHAT LAW IS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The discussion of prohibition, its proposals, draws in the consideration of fundamental questions What law is what it is for, and the limits of effective law and the grounds of its demands for enforcement, are considerations

It is urged with much freedom the opponents of prohibition that law is a measure of public sentiment. It is an index of public opinion If the people can with ease want a measure, they will have it, or if they do not favor it, any need enactment after opposition or indifference will render it a dead letter. This is a correct, a truism law is a truth an index of the time. There is no other way of understanding certain declarations of social level that have been made in favor of prohibition. We refer to the declaration party to the Worcester convention and other utterances to the same effect. When public sentiment is ripe enough to call for it, we shall have it. Very good. Like many other sentiments being made it is a wrong sentiment. We are getting the logic of it their principle that law is only a reflex of public sentiment, the moment that public sentiment reaches a majority and a majority of one, and withdraw from opposition

But that view of law, which it is a golden age against a minority, is not good against a majority We hear saloon keepers and their sympathizers speak of rights when the law begins to pinch them. The liquor dealers at Chicago speak of their rights. Public journals which expound the public sentiment theory of law as against prohibition, speak of the folly of trying to deprive anyone of his right to eat and drink what he pleases.

We are glad that these expressions are made because they reveal the true nature of law—right. While in one interesting aspect law is an index of public opinion, that is no more its essential nature than a thermometer is the essential nature of heat. Law is the regulator of society It mediates between man and man, defining what is just, and preventing the encroachment of one upon the rights of another There are certain natural and inalienable rights which each member of society may claim, and which government must secure to him, or else forfeit his obedience To name them, there are the right to life, to property, to personal liberty, and to personal security Law aims to secure to every individual these rights. If it fails to do so it is iniquitous These are axiomatic principles of law, and no public sentiment can ever do other than admit their correctness, however much it may disregard them It is within the boundary of these rights that prohibitory legislation is justifiable. No man's right to personal liberty can abolish another's right to personal security

The saloon business, by living only upon a public vice, induces public disorder, making each member of society insecure in his right to property and even in his right to liberty and life

Prohibitionists seek to make statutory law conform to these great principles of law, feeling sure that what is actually just between man and man is the real center of gravity of public sentiment, and is the only course which is permanently practicable. H. S LYMAN

THE BULGARIAN CRISIS.

RUSSIA STILL MISTRESS OF THE SITUATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Star's London cable special Division of the European powers still leaves Russia, to a certain extent, mistress of the situation in Bulgaria. Reports of continued massing of troops in Bessarabia are received, but peaceable people are of the opinion that the cold season is now too near at hand for the commencement of operations before the spring of 1887 Jingoes take the view that Russia intends to prolong the controversy until winter, and then suddenly march an overwhelming force into Bulgaria and occupy all the strategic points desired, holding them secure from attack all winter, in order to commence the spring campaign, if resistance should then be offered, with all the advantage accruing from the possession of strong advanced positions.

RUSSIAN PRESS OPINION

ST PETERSBURG, Oct. 12.—Newspapers of this city are unanimously of the opinion that decisive action by Russia in regard to Bulgaria is imperative The Journal de St Petersburg says that events justified Russia in urging postponement of the elections in Bulgaria until the passions of the people had cooled from the late excitement, and adds that it can be readily understood why Russia refuses to recognize or sanction an assembly elected under such a condition of affairs as is now existing in Bulgaria.

FRANCE

INCREASE OF THE WAR FEELING

PARIS, Oct. 12.—There is a rapid growth of war feeling in France The Boulanger party have begun to issue two new journals to vindicate an offensive policy in vindication of the old military prestige of France Gen Boulanger however, disowns any connection with the papers

M Lavedon, military critic, writes to the Figaro that Gen Boulanger has prepared a well conceived plan, in conjunction with a staff officer of high rank for a continental campaign The Militaire says that Gen Boulanger desires war, not for the purpose of recovering Alsace, but to gratify personal ambition, but as a step leading to a solution of several questions

The subject of the question of everything German is being observed M Lockemob, minister of commerce, has ordered the police to prosecute all persons selling boxes of toys imported from Germany, and containing maps of France with or without Alsace

THE BRIDGE QUESTION

EAST PORTLAND OUT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The communication in this morning's OREGONIAN signed by the president of the Stark Street Ferry Company shows plainly where the opposition to the bridge is, of the Morrison Street bridge emanates from Naturally the ferry company does not want to see a bridge at Morrison street. Having by far the best paying monopoly in the state they are anxious to keep it, and will no doubt do all in their power to prevent or delay the building of the bridge

But the large and constantly increasing traffic across the river demands a bridge The people who have suffered so long the inconvenience and delays incressing the river by means of a ferry demand it, and if it did not come in its present shape it would certainly come in the form of a free bridge This by the way, would not be the losing paragraph of his letter says The Oregonian and Navigation company now propose to build a bridge at the lower end of the city and make the draw 60 feet in the clear of whatever the United States engineers say is necessary Why stop until the Traffic Bridge company are required to do the same It is as necessary for a wide draw at Morrison street as anywhere below it

Well just because it is not as necessary at Morrison street as anywhere below it for the following reasons, and others, viz: Where the Oregon railway & Navigation company propose to build their bridge all or nearly all the shipping that comes to Portland will have to pass through it But the draw is very different at Morrison street Most of the steamers over 3,000 tons above Morrison street and very seldom get within half a mile of it Not more than one in fifty of the sailing vessels ever go above it and not one in a thousand of the freight that comes to Portland in ocean ships, vessels ever goes above Morrison street draw Besides that there is no necessity of vessels coming under the draw at Morrison street, if it was without a draw Every fisherman is of the opinion that to set his nets at Morrison street draw would ruin the best fishing ground in the river Objects to the draw Objects they have to

But the case is very different at Morrison street Coming from the Willamette river property above Morrison street (Couch's addition) would be benefited by a bridge at the latter point, as the present ferry has one, and would have to stop at Thayer's the same as at present Morrison street is the best place for the bridge to be built, and the interests of the greatest number of people demand that it be built there

PORTLAND, OR., Oct. 1st, 1886.
We have this day entered into a partnership agreement for the purpose of conducting a wholesale and retail Book and Stationery business, under the firm name of J. K. GILL & CO. The business is a continuation of the wholesale business of J. K. Gill & Co. and the retail business of W. H. Ayer & Co. The liabilities of both concerns will be assumed by the new firm, and all outstanding accounts will be collected by them. In order to secure the best facilities for conducting the business we have moved into more commodious quarters, occupying the new building at the corner First and Morrison streets, 23 and 25 feet, and extending through to Ankeny street. The patronage of the public is solicited, with the assurance that every arrangement will be made to merit a continuance of the favors of the public hitherto bestowed upon the firm of J. K. GILL & CO.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.
A thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets, labelled thus:

FREIGHTS—The Margaret Heald was taken up by Sibson, Quackenbush & Co. on terms not made public. Three of the fleet here cleared yesterday with full or part cargoes.

WHEAT—Advices are of irregular markets with nothing pointing to any early change for the better. Our own is quiet and, rather weak, and only a settled decline would bring out increased buying. Needs are light and not pressing.

OATS—Light arrivals, hardly enough for local needs, so that stocks are again being drawn upon.

FLOUR—Very little trouble to-day in securing 30c. The price is expected to increase arrivals and it certainly lessens consumption.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Governments strong; stocks less active and a majority of them lower. The news of to-day was almost entirely of an unfavorable character. The uncertainty and delay in the formation of a pool at Chicago also served to depress values, and continued until the close. Money was also a factor in the decline. Pacific Mail was again the leading weak stock, and stories that circulated of a warfare by the Panama railroad company against the Pacific Mail, and rumors of an injunction on the part of the former to refuse freight from the latter, were used with effect. New England was conspicuously strong, and in the main shows a handsome advance. Several new stories were circulated with regard to the property with more or less effect. Prices at the opening were somewhat irregular, but generally showed declines ranging from ¼ to ⅝, but New York and New England was ¾ per cent. Later the market was marked by considerable dullness and narrow fluctuations, prices making little progress in either direction until the last hour, when a general decline took place. Values was checked just previous to the close, but if closed weak, at the lowest figures of the day.

A Remarkable Tribute.

Sidney Borchaudge, of Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "I have used DR. W. M. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS many years with the most gratifying results. The refreshing influence of HALL'S BALSAM is wonderful. The full and rack of the body, incidental to a tight cough, soon disappear by the use of a spoonful according to directions. My wife frequently sends for HALL'S BALSAM instead of a physician, and health is speedily restored by its use."

THE EAST SIDE.

CHURCH BUILDING TO BE REMOVED.

A meeting of the members and congregation of the First Presbyterian church of this city was held on Monday evening, to consider the feasability of purchasing a lot on which to remove the church building. There was a large attendance, and a great deal of interest was taken in the proceedings. Dr. George Wigg, president of the society, occupied the chair, and stated the object of the meeting, after which the views of several present were given on the proposed change of location, and it was found to be the sense of the meeting that steps be taken to purchase a lot situated on the corner of Seventh and H streets, which could be bought on very reasonable terms, and a committee consisting of Rev. D. J. Ghormley, chairman, Walter Jones, Mrs. S. B. Story, Dr. Wigg and W. H. West were appointed to solicit subscriptions and report at the annual meeting of the society, which occurs on the fourth Monday of the present month. The cost of moving the building and putting it on a good foundation is estimated to be $350, and Mr. Ladd, who had the church built, has promised to donate the building to the church, providing it is placed on the new location entirely free of debt, and this the society expect to do.

A NOCTURNAL VISITOR.

Yesterday morning about 6 o'clock Rev. T. L. Sails, who resides on Seventeenth, between N and O streets, arose rather early, and proceeded to the kitchen to kindle a fire in the stove, and upon lifting the covers was greatly surprised to find crouched in the end of the fire box a good sized screech owl staring at him, which he says must have descended the chimney and stove pipe into the place where it was found, because no door had been in the kitchen but themselves during the evening and night previous. Mr. Sails procured a cage, and has his owlship in safe keeping.

TAKEN TO THE INSANE ASYLUM.

Alexander Smeek, a deputy sheriff of Grant county, arrived in this city Tuesday morning, having in charge a Mrs. Emiliga V. Fisher, a woman 52 years of age, who had been adjudged insane by the proper authorities of that county, and whom he was taking to the asylum at Salem. The woman had been trying to starve herself, and had refused food for a long time previous, and had become weak and emaciated. Upon her arrival here she was conveyed to the Boise hotel, and it was thought she was dying. Dr. C. H. Raffety was called, who prescribed for her, and after a short time she revived, and was taken to the asylum by the Albany express last evening. It is thought she can survive but a few days at most.

NOTES.

A large number of bids have been received at the recorder's office for the work of improving Twelfth and Division streets. To-day and to-morrow are the last days for the reception of bids.

The Mite society in connection with St. David's Episcopal guild will meet to-morrow evening at the residence of Mrs. R. L. Hawthorne, corner of Twelfth and O streets. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of the society to be present.

All friends of the Young Men's Christian association are requested to attend the mass meeting to be held in the Methodist Episcopal church this evening, as the subject of reorganizing the association in this city will be discussed. Good speakers will be present to address the meeting, and good music will be interspersed between the addresses.

J. Put, Smith of Portland has purchased the lot and residence formerly owned by H. C. Carmenck, corner of J and Thirteenth streets. Walter Jones has been engaged to remove the building farther back from the street. An addition of twenty feet will be built and the property otherwise improved, when Mr. Smith and family will move into it.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Alley Fox is in the city, spending a few days visiting with her son, Mr. George Fox. She will return to her home at Astoria to-morrow.

Mr. Warren Cranston, father of Mr. Charles Cranston, came down from Salem yesterday morning and spent a few hours visiting friends, and left on the afternoon train for Baker City, where he goes on a business trip.

Mr. George Linville, who has been employed in the bridge building department of the Northern Pacific railroad for a few weeks past, returned home yesterday, having met with the misfortune to mash his left hand and fracture the little finger of his left hand while working on bridge work at Umatilla. It will be some time before he will be able to resume work.

READINGS LAST EVENING.

One of the most pleasant affairs of the season occurred last evening in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Mr. Charles Dudley of New York gave the first of two evenings of readings, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Wetzell, Miss Dora McCord and Miss Constance Jordan. The entertainment opened with the "Angels' Serenade," which was very finely rendered by Mrs. Wetzell, who was in most excellent voice. She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Jordan and violin by Miss McCord. Mr. Dudley followed with several selections—humorous, pathetic and dramatic. Mr. Dudley is well equipped by nature and education for his work. His voice is clear, musical and penetrating, his conception of the character he is sustaining is not overdrawn, as is too often the case, but thoroughly natural.

Mrs. Wetzell's second selection was "Com. E. Bellp," to which she received a hearty encore, and kindly responded with a selection with which obligato by Miss McCord. Mrs. Wetzell's fine rich voice was never heard to better advantage.

With the space which we are able to devote to the notice of the entertainment it would be an injustice to attempt a detailed criticism, but Mr. Dudley in the personal of the great tragic roles of the bard of Avon, by the grace of persuence, the power of acting and easy compass of voice, proved himself a fine Shakesperean reader.

To-night closes Mr. Dudley's engagement and any who have not heard him should not fail to improve the opportunity. Miss Chamberlain who was unavoidably detained last evening will positively be present to-night. The programme of readings for this evening embraces the selection "Ostler Joe," a poem which, read by Mrs. James Brown Potter at a fashionable reception in Washington last winter, created a great furor and much adverse criticism. The following is the programme.

BROWNSVILLE NOTES.

BROWNSVILLE, Or., Oct. 12.

Heavy frost last night, the hardest of the season.

A big crowd left by the narrow gauge this morning for the Mechanics' fair.

Mr. Sperry has been engaged to preach for another year by the Baptists here.

The narrow gauge road expects to have trains running to Woodburn by to-morrow if possible.

Mr. L. Coshow and son departed for Prineville last Sunday horseback, and a cool ride they will have.

Mr. James McHargne, who has been very sick, is improving, and will soon be rarin' again. Master Gus Hausman is also improving, but much slower than his parents and friends would like to see.

Mr. Samuel Wilson was married on the 3d inst. at Hailey, in Idaho, to Miss Sadie Skinner, of Doniphon, Idaho.

Last week the ladies of the Rebekah lodge were given an oyster supper by the brothers, and an enjoyable time was had generally.

Baxter Henderson and H. Archibald returned last Sunday from a trip east of the mountains. They report fifty miles of snow, but not deep yet.

Dr. McCauley and wife are spending a few days down at Stayton. The doctor's mother is very sick, and fears are entertained that she will not recover.

Messrs. Barrett and Kessling start out on a deer hunt in the mountains this morning. Since the storm in the mountains game is very plentiful in the foothills above here.

The dry house of Mr. W. B. Smith, south of town, was destroyed by fire last Friday, together with a lot of dried apples and other fruits. Loss in the neighborhood of $1000, which will fall heavily on Mr. Smith.

Mr. Reacher recently declared, in a lecture at Gateshead, England, that he never yet had seen in a hall where 1000 persons could breathe comfortably for an hour and a half together.

Get the Best

It is a good motto to follow in buying medicine, as well as in everything else. By the universal satisfaction it has given, and by the many remarkable cures it has accomplished, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven itself unequaled for building up and strengthening the system, and for all diseases arising from or promoted by impure blood. Do not experiment with any untried or inferior article, which you are told is "just as good," but be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I consider Hood's Sarsaparilla the best medicine I ever used. It gives me an appetite and relieves me of sleepy, tired feeling the first thing in the morning." JOHN S. FOOT, 109 Spruce St., previously, Nashua, N. H.

"I was formerly very much troubled with dyspepsia, and felt the need of a good tonic. I have taken other medicines, but never found any that did me so much good as Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have now a good appetite and feel as well all over as I ever did in my life. I have been for years." E. H. RAND, 11 West Ninth street, Oswego, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and money to get it in its effect than any preparation I ever heard of." MRS. C. A. HUTCHINS, N. Cuill, N. Y.

Testimony of Rev. J. T. Huff:

TUMALO STATION, Or., Aug. 25, 1886.
Prof. THE SARSFIELD REMEDIES CO.—Gents: I got both of your Sarsfield's Remedies, and am pleased to say that they are good for suffering humanity. I have had a large experience in connection with these remedies, and I would not live three months. Now I am much better than I have been for years. I have suffered with Scrofula and Sore Ulcers, and all had failed to cure. I thank God for his kind providence that led me to you and your wonderful remedies. I would recommend your Sarsfield's Cleansing Blood Poisoning of any description to try Sarsfield's Remedy for the blood and its diseases.
Yours truly, J. T. HUFF.
Witness: Sarsfield Remedies Co. Can you recommend it with the merit of their remedies.

Cancer of the Tongue.

My wife, some three or four years ago, was troubled with an ulcer on the side of her tongue near the throat. The pain was incessant, causing loss of sleep and producing great nervous prostration. A consulting physician was called in, and it was decided that the only chance was amputation. It had passed from the shoulders and cent
